These workshops are designed to assist you toward greater financial freedom. All workshops are free and open to everyone.

Workshops are one hour or less. Medical Center residents can receive three hours credit towards community service hours for attending. Resident must be present for entire workshop to obtain these community service hours. Instructor will sign community service forms at the end of the workshop.

All workshops will be held at Johnson Hall, 906 Wilson Street, San Bernardino, CA. Please call Estella Nunez, Resident Service Coordinator at (909) 885-1593 ext. 223 if you have any questions or if you wish to sign up. Walk ins are welcome but we suggest you call in to sign up early so the instructor will be prepared to accommodate all participants.

Online Financial Literacy Workshop

Springboard now provides an online budgeting workshop. A financial educator will show you the steps to take to take control of your finances. This is a free one hour class. Walk ins are welcome, but due to the limited seating we suggest you RSVP.

If you have questions or you wish to RSVP, call the Neighborhood Network Center at 909-885-5350 ext. 3464.

Workshop is held at the Neighborhood Network Center located at 906 Wilson St, San Bernardino, CA

Understanding Credit Reports and Scores

Credit scores determine or at least greatly influence access to housing, unsecured credit lines, insurance, utility and cell phone services, and employment.

Since they are based on credit reports, it is very important that the data be correct for the score to have any meaning and consumers to accept the validity of credit scoring.

Surviving the Holidays

As you go through the holiday season, there may be some valid reason you feel “blue” this time of year. These points may help explain why you may not be in the holiday mood.

- Your childhood memories of the season remember it as more “fun.” You didn’t realize just how much preparation was involved.
- High hopes and expectations.
- You are pressured to BUY?
- Relationships may be strained
- Away from your family.
- Outlook changed.

These tips and more can affect you during the holiday season. Springboard can help you!

Grocery Market Makeover

Learn to read and compare food ingredient and nutrition facts labels. Identify unit pricing as a tool to help determine the best food buys in the grocery store. Discuss how wise food shopping can save money. Identify ways to cut food costs when eating out or at home

Payday Advance Loans/Predatory Lending

This workshop will help you identify dishonest lenders and learn to budget during a financial crisis

How Am I Going to Pay My Bills?

People find themselves in financial difficulty for many reasons. Obviously, most people find that they don’t have enough money to pay their bills. Some incur too much credit card debt. Others have problems stemming from loss of employment such as being laid off or fired from a job.

Some find themselves in debt because of personal problems that get out of control such as poor money management, gambling, drinking, drugs, or an addiction to spending money.

For whatever the reason, this course will help you get back to financial stability.

Road Map to Financial Freedom

This workshop helps you take the first of many steps on your journey to financial freedom through the use of a debt management program that allows you to consolidate and payback any unsecured debts.

Online Budgeting Workshop

The Power of Paycheck Planning is a lesson in basic budgeting, that many of us feel we may already know, but could use a refresher in. We find that many of our clients like to return to this seminar periodically to brush up on their budgeting skills.

Springboard is a nonprofit consumer credit management organization formed in 1974. They are committed to improve the lives and financial well-being of individuals and families by providing quality financial education and counseling.
